2022-2023 Concert Season

Dr. Anna Song, Artistic Director

Welcome to our 2022-2023 concert season! In Mulieribus remains steadfast in its dedication to sharing beauty, inspiring hope, and reminding us all of our shared humanity through music and song, even as we face a world changed by the ongoing pandemic and full of heightened uncertainties and questions about both the past and future.

The upcoming year brings us several “firsts,” including a performance in Hillsboro at St. Matthew Catholic Church, a concert of music by Latin American composers, and the world premiere of a new work I am writing for the ensemble —something I have always wanted to do! In other ways, the season includes a return to the familiar, such as a return to St. Philip Neri where we performed our very first concerts, and a chance for you to once again become IM season subscribers!

Finally, a collaborative project with Portland Youth Philharmonic two years in the making will culminate in May of 2023. IM and PYP will premiere Because I Will Not Despair, a co-commissioned work from composer Jessica Meyer with poetry by Portland poet Alicia Jo Rabins. In addition to the concerts, we are working to offer opportunities for audiences to engage with the artists and delve deeper into the new piece. Stay tuned for more details!

Best wishes to you all for a healthy fall. We look forward to seeing you at the concerts!

Sombras y Sueños Shadows & Dreams

*Sponsored by Susan Koe, Bernie &
Karen Kuehn, Judy & Mike Stoner*

Our season opens with the fascinating sounds of early and contemporary music of Latin America. The program will include villancicos by 17th century Mexican composers Sor Juana Inés de la Cruz, Juan García de Zéspedes, and Juan de Lienas, works by Heitor Villa-Lobos and Pablo Casals, and Einojuhani Rautavaara's famous Suite de Lorca — a haunting setting of Federico García Lorca's surrealist poems.

A Rose in Midwinter

Sponsored by Judith Freeman

Medieval carols and contemporary songs for the holidays will explore ancient meditations on the rose in midwinter—its beauty, symbolism, and metaphors. Come, relish in the wonder, expectation, and joys of the season with IM, a time-honored December tradition for Portland audiences since 2004!

We Rise!

Sponsored by Ginny Adelsheim and Deborah & George Olsen

This program proudly celebrates the remarkable accomplishments and creative contributions of women composers, poets, and performers throughout history, achieved with grit and determination against all odds. Performed will be works by women spanning the centuries alongside the world premiere of Sister Among Sisters, a new work written for IM by our very own cofounding artistic director and conductor, Anna Song, featuring poetry by Ashland-based artist and poet Tiziana DellaRovere.

A hugely ambitious presentation of new music for women's voices and string orchestra will be a highlight of 2023. Jessica Meyer's new composition jointly commissioned by IM and Portland Youth Philharmonic—Because I Will Not Despair—will be performed alongside the West Coast premiere of Kareem Roustom's Hurry to the Light. Don't miss it!

In Mulieribus
luminous in song

(the Latin phrase meaning “among women”) - is a female vocal ensemble dedicated to strengthening community through the art of music. The ensemble specializes in works written before 1750 and champions new repertoire by female composers and for women’s voices.
